Liberals Form Plans To Enter Candidate In City By-Election

A Liberal candidate will be placed in the field to contest the legislative seat left vacant by the death of D. M. Duggan. Independent recommendations to be submitted at the full executive meeting of the Edmonton Provincial Liberal Association next Thursday are adopted.

Canada Rushes Own Output Of Dive Bombers

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA, July 28.—Recalling the days of June, 1940, when a shipload of airplanes from England for training purposes in Canada, turned back to the Atlantic in order that the planes could be used in the Battle of Britain, a change has been made in the new air training agreement, dated June 1, 1942, were recently recalled in parliament by C. G. C. Power, Canadian minister, though details of the airplanes to be provided by the British government were not disclosed. The concentration of operational training units in Canada instead of Britain has been a feature of recent air training changes. The original intention was to conduct operational training in British aircraft of the latest fighters and bomber types.

LIKELY CANDIDATES
In political circles three names have been prominently mentioned. These are Neil D. Maclean, K.C., president of the Edmonton Provincial Liberal Association; Chas. H. Grant, K.C., secretary of the association; and Gerald O'Connor, K.C.

Date of the by-election is expected to be announced by the provincial government within a few days. Speculation talk among political circles places the possible dates between September 15 and November 1.

Under the Alberta Election Act, the government, by order-in-council, is required to fill a vacancy within 180 days from the date the vacancy occurred.

The act also requires that the election be held to take place not less than 30 days and not more than 60 days from the time the date is announced. There are to be no clear days before nomination day and polling day.

It is usual in rural ridings where distances are great to make the margin 40 days while in compact ridings the 30-day notice is given.

FOUR-PRONGED CONTEST
If Thursday's action accepts the recommendations of the executive council, the by-election will be contested by at least four candidates as the Independents and the R.C.A.P. have already chosen their candidates and the Social Credit Constituency association has elected its candidates.

Defends Report

By LEON KAY
CAIRO, July 28.—(BUP)—Imperial troops of Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck inflicted heavy casualties on the Axis in hand-to-hand fighting on the northern end of the desert front and took a substantial number of prisoners, dispatches said today.

The enemy was staggered by heavy blows inflicted by South African, Australian and British troops driving from two directions southwest of El Alamein.

The South Africans and English, attacking from the east, and the Australians driving south from their positions around Tel Elia, squeezed the Axis troops in a limited area.

For six and a half hours after the limited offensive opened the enemy was slowly driven back, General reported.

Military circles, discussing the seizure of the Siwa oasis, west of the southern end of the Qattara Depression, by Italian forces three days ago, said it was indicative of the loss. They said the Italians were not opposed as much as they had been.

Allies Warned Against Invasion Until Tactical Lessons Learned

By EDWARD W. BEATTIE
LONDON, July 28.—(UPI)—German War Minister Hermann Goebbels today warned against the Allies opening a second front unless they have learned the tactical lessons of the Far East and Middle East campaigns.

"Even if available men and weapons are plentiful and shipping adequate," said Hore-Belisha, "there would still be another element upon which success or failure would depend."

Without the use of overboard conserving members, there is not the sending of an expedition against the continent.

The point-upto in a statement that the use of air forces as part of the army is the German and Japanese their biggest victory.

MOSCOW, July 28.—(AP)—German military mechanized might drove into the north Caucasus today over widened bridgeheads across the Don and after Tsimlyansk and the broken defences of Novocherkassk and Rostov in the grave moment of the entire war for the Soviet Union.

Into their bid for conquest of the Caucasus—Russia's oil barrel and supply bridge to the south—the Germans hurried forces of the Red Star, organ of the Russian army, said were "many times superior" to the number of the defenders.

Hammering toward the last rail line linking the Stalingrad to the Caucasus, the Germans were said to have made a new thrust on the Don in the Tsimlyansk sector, where the Don flows within 50 miles of the railway.

REPULSE ATTACKS
The defenders of Stalingrad, however, were reported to have repulsed the German offensive infantry attacks deep in the Don basin close to the mighty Volga.

The German high command said its forces had widened and deepened the Caucasus-front which the Don had reached or crossed eastward from the eastern end.

One Soviet force was reported to have destroyed German tanks and killed 700 of the invaders yesterday on the steps of the Caucasus-front south of the Don as close as 50 miles to Stalingrad, industrial city of the Volga.

Soviet publications stressed the gravity of the loss of Rostov and Novocherkassk, positions the Russian plan for the opening of a new front in the Caucasus, by a declaration of Pravda that Germany had withdrawn 11 divisions from the Caucasus front.

OVERHELMING ATTACKS
The invaders were halfway along on their task of isolating the Trans-Caucasus, with its riches in oil, wheat, meat and fruit, reaching eastward toward the Volga and the Caspian Sea. However, it is some 700 miles from Rostov to Baku, the Caspian oil port in the Black Sea.

Overwhelming German attacks finally forced Marshal Semenov's forces to withdraw from Rostov, a major port on the Volga, and the Don, which flows into the Azov Sea 23 miles below Rostov, battered waters and shipyards.

Copyright, 1942, by the British United Press and The Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, July 28.—(CP)—The national C.C.F. convention, presented a five-point program for victory and total war in delegates attending the 10th anniversary convention of the party here today.

The program was presented at the afternoon session of the convention, presented these objectives for Canada's war policy: mobilization for total war; democratic control of industry; protection of agriculture and fisheries; social justice; a democratic military policy.

Declaring that "war planning and post-war policies are not separate issues, but two parts of the same fight for victory," the report also proposed these major plans for the post-war period:

1. The rehabilitation of the war-torn areas; a national security system; a new program for education; a new program for social justice; a democratic military policy.

• Oriental Atmosphere In Edmonton, As East Meets West

Redecorated Purple Lantern Combines Western Hospitality With Beautiful Treasures Of East!

Symbolic of the common cause, which East and West are championing, is the introduction to Edmonton of China's colorful beauty, carried out in decorations and importations at the Purple Lantern, which re-opens tomorrow. Just a glimpse of the entrance excites your interest to explore further, for over an acre of space is filled with a pagoda—two brilliant purple lanterns, guarded by a ferocious green dragon throwing out tongues of neon flame. Once you pass the green dragon, Mr. Dick Yee—your host—welcomes you to the attractive lounge, and invites you to wait for your friends and you promptly relax into a comfortable red leather chair.

ORIENTAL COLORS

There's a hint of the color scheme in the lounge . . . but not until you venture further, can you feel the full blaze of brilliant colors that abound throughout the dining room. Upright walls of delicate purple are bordered by jade green and the lower walls contrast richly in lacquer black. Partitions and even special booths are a soft glow with famous old Chinese scenes delicately imprinted on each one.

... AND DRAGONS
In the second new dining room—we shrink back from a gigantic green dragon which stretches the full length of the hall. It curls over each doorway and, incidentally, acts as a disguise for the air-conditioning system, which insures your comfort in the warmest weather. Very clever, the Chinese, for the doorway between two dining rooms is a handsome pagoda . . . while the swinging doors to the kitchen have turned into a bamboo barricade.

... AND SERPENTS
There's a nice feeling of privacy in each booth—accomplished with wings which wind up the sides of partitions . . . in the form of sinister serpents twisting and turning—but perfectly harmless. The serpents are in the first dining room . . . and loath in the second hall are finished with beautiful pagodas, depicting scenes from far across the Pacific.

... AND LANTERNS
Through the soft, Oriental atmosphere are hung the loveliest lanterns in all the land. In an intricately-carved framework of ebony black, are Chinese motifs in soft shades—painted on silk and covered with glass. From the tiled corners hang the most luxurious silk tassels . . . in brilliant blues, greens, reds, golds and yellows. Tiny matching lanterns are hung in each booth . . . to throw a delicate light which reflects your gracious, restful enjoyment—and to throw a soft light upwards, onto Chinese lettering on the walls, which are famous old wishes of good-will.

... AND THE CUISINE
Knowing that you are always welcome in the kitchen, you'll undoubtedly continue your tour . . . and it's definitely a pleasure to step into the kitchen, gleaming room that is the pride of the manager. Sparkling white walls are finished in cool green . . . and every inch of steam is being kept out of the kitchen. A great electrical refrigeration unit and huge cookstove insure having cold things cold—and hot things hot! While the Purple Lantern specializes in the most delicious and unusual Chinese cuisine . . . they have also paid particular attention to that "rare" steak—golden-fried chicken—and crisp green said you may prefer. There will be special luncheon suggestions, served from eleven to two-thirty—afternoon tea from two-thirty to four-thirty—and dinner from five to eight! All Edmonton is going to be in discovering the tantalizing beauties of China . . . revealed in a delightful Oriental atmosphere and in the appetizing dishes which have been handed down through generations, from an ancient dynasty!

so important as the strength and holding power of the Russian army. Occupation of the north Caucasus would be a serious loss to Russia and a tangible asset to Germany in the oil which they would get. It also probably would entail the smashing of Marshal Semyn Timoshenko's Caucasian army.

RUSSIANS MUST HOLD
But if the Russians held through August and enter September with their arms and equipment still reasonably intact, there would be ground for hoping that Hitler can be held until another winter comes to bog down his mechanized juggernaut.

The relation of these considerations to a second front is apparent. There can be little doubt that a second front has been decided upon. There is reason to believe, however, that the high commands of Britain and the United States have decided, and have so advised Russia, that its chances of success are doubtful if undertaken immediately.

The clamor for a second front comes from the public, which is not in a position to know the military state of affairs. There is strong feeling for it among the Russian people and the rank and file of the Red army.

The Russian position is critical but not yet desperate. Should it become desperate in ensuing weeks, it is not improbable that Moscow would send the SOS and the second front plans would be

AIR POWER QUESTION
Besides the enormous problem of shipping and supply, air strength is a dominant factor in deciding the second front question. The R.A.F. is superior in the western air but not yet dominant. The serial "second front" which was foreseen with the first of the 1900-plane raids over Germany has not yet materialized. Such raids as the 600-plane attack on Hamburg Sunday night are not as frequent as had been hoped.

The fact that Germany used only 50 to 70 planes in last night's raids over Britain is not necessarily an indication of German strength—or weakness. The Germans are believed to have a backlog of 50,000 to 70,000 planes kept in reserve for either defence or offence if the time comes.

However, British and American production of fighters and bombers is in full swing and the outcome is inevitable.

Drastic Action On Metal Need Likely

OTTAWA, July 26.—(CP)—Reports from manufacturers applying under the production requirements plan indicate the metal shortage in North America is becoming so serious that "still more drastic" civilian curtailments will be necessary to keep war plants in full operation.

Establishment of the production requirements plan, a new priorities system centered in Washington, was announced by Mr. Howe July 5 in a statement which said the North American supply situation was so critical that "hundreds" of Canadian manufacturers would be unable to obtain enough raw materials from the United States to keep their plants running.

In Canada, the system establishes quotas for all manufacturers using more than $500 worth of metals in a calendar quarter. The manufacturer must submit reports for each quarter, showing his existing inventory, what he uses the metals for, and how much he will need for the next three months.

Panama Canal, U.S. Road Is Rushed To Bypass Sub Menace

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—Six Central American republics are joining with the United States in an emergency job of road building to bypass the submarine menace and provide an overland route from the United States to the Panama canal.

Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Panama, the state department announced last night, have agreed to cooperate in the immediate construction of pioneer roads to connect the segments of the inter-American highway between the Mexican-Guatemalan border and Panama City.

The construction plans call for about 625 miles of quickly constructible pioneer road to fill the gaps in the inter-American highway, the completed segments of which now aggregate 1,000 miles in length.

Exhibition Association Plans To Stage Fair In 1943

Profit Of $20,397 Shown
On Operations This Year:
$30,000 Paid Governments

A summer fair will be held in Edmonton in 1943 if permission to use the exhibition grounds can be obtained from the Dominion ministry for air.

ELMER H. LOGAN entering the Trade Building, AND Lorne Melish leaving it. John Pollock and Jack Williams entering the Civic block. J. T. McCraith walking west on Jasper Avenue. R. H. M. Bailey walking north on 101 street. Howard Emery, K.C., chatting with a friend at the 100 street and Jasper Avenue intersection. W. L. Mitchell entering the C.P.R. building. Percy Herring leaving the Agency building. Ed Walker walking east on Jasper Avenue, and Gerry Murphy entering the Macdonald Hotel.

This decision was made by the directors of the Edmonton Exhibition Association at a meeting held Monday evening at the Alexandra block. C. E. Wilson, president of the association, was delegated to attend the annual meeting of the Western Canada Association of Exhibitions, to be held this week at Regina, and apply for funds for next year. The application will be conditional to satisfactory arrangements being made for the use of the grounds.

102,397 PROFIT
The profit of $20,397 had been made on the summer fair's operation this year. From this must be deducted administration costs, depreciation on plant and equipment, loss sustained on the operation of the spring and fall livestock shows, and the building shows. The loss on the three shows totaled $916.

Approximately $20,000 was paid to the Dominion and provincial governments. The remainder, after other taxes, P. W. Abbott, K.C., president of the association, estimated this amount and $37,000 to the Dominion government.

In presenting this report Mr. Wilson stated that the fair's patronage exceeded the year's income.

Mayor Lodges Protest Over Labor Draining

Support of the protest made last week by the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce against the continued draining of skilled laborers from western Canada.

Mayor F. W. Grey, who stated that a serious situation would arise if this practice was continued.

A resolution protesting the taking of skilled workers from the west to man eastern factories was sent by the Chamber of Commerce to Ottawa in which it was stated that the chamber and other industrial and representative bodies viewed "with great alarm any proposal to further concentrate the war industry of Canada."

The long awaited challenge to the regular training hours. A stroll down the lines reveals many of the men busy at line telegraphy, and amateur wireless hounds take the sets and obtain practice in procedure. Their practicing is monitored from the unit office and mistakes pointed out and corrected.

FINE PITCHING
Sunday afternoon a successful household pitching tournament was held by the Chamber of Commerce. Some excellent pitching was shown, but in one game, the pitcher failed to allow any ball within a radius of six feet in order to get a count of three.

Fusiliers On Rifle Ranges With Bren Guns

When members of the 2nd Bn. Edmonton Fusiliers, (R) CA, went into action on the ranges with those vicious Bren guns at Sarsse camp it sounded as if the war had come to Alberta. Several loud bursts at the 100-yard distance kicked up clouds of dust and a greatly surprised gopher came close to going west for good.

Members of the unit are practicing the use of the Bren gun, and camp period, sports were not held, due to being rained out, but it is expected the war will make up for it.

So interested are the members of the 13th District Signals, R.C. S. (R) in their work that there has been no time for the regular training hours. A stroll down the lines reveals many of the men busy at line telegraphy, and amateur wireless hounds take the sets and obtain practice in procedure. Mounting Accident Toll Emphasizes Necessity Safety - First Measures

By TOM SHANDRO
One of the most commonly used but frequently abused slogans ever placed before the public is the slogan "Safety First." Even before the advent of motorized travel, citizens were set agog by reports of horseless buggies traveling down the main thoroughfare at the "breakneck speed of 11 miles per hour."

Such drivers were apparently endangering the safety of the pedestrian public and were reprimanded in no uncertain terms. The fact remains, however, that the accident toll has increased with the increasing hazards, the accident toll continued to mount from year to year, and day to day.

SEEK TO PREVENT
Today, traffic accidents, traffic education, automobile drivers' tests, restrictions on drivers, stepping up of penalties for traffic violations, and hundreds of other plans are being promoted and instituted constantly in efforts to lessen the ghastly toll of those who meet death or injury on the streets and highways.

In spite of all this campaigning for "Safety First," there is always the careless motorist, cyclist or pedestrian who sets at naught all the efforts of those who wish and work to prevent accidents.

FULL MEANING
An understanding of the full meaning of the slogan "Safety First," would definitely put the potential initiator of a traffic accident on his guard. If the motorist, or cyclist, or pedestrian would be reminded that the words "Safety First" could be a contradiction of the expression, "If you consider your safety and the safety of others first, all else will turn out alright," he may be less likely to fall into the many pitfalls of highway and street travel that sooner or later result in an accident of a serious nature.

It goes without questioning that slogan of safety have been placed before the public more frequently than any others, but a study of traffic accidents that occur in any locality proves beyond doubt that the general public very frequently fails to take heed even of the most urgent warnings.

THE ANSWERS
FRANK HALE, Saskatchewan farmer: The spirit of the suggestion is splendid. As a practical measure, I think it would be worthless. Just how long would the average farmer be able to follow a binder in stooking, or how long would the same kind of work be done? Harvesting is a hard work, and a good thing to be able to work a fellow. In doubt there would be exceptions. I doubt if such an effort on a large scale would be worth while.

JIM DERRY, farmer: Providing the right kind of men were sent to the country would be a good thing. Young fellows, with lots of pep and big grease are needed in harvest time on the farm. It also seems to me such a plan would require a lot of organizing in advance.

JIM ALLAN, telephone worker: If it will help, I'll be glad to do it. I'll be glad to do it. I'll be glad to do it.

A BRAVE YOUNG LADY, who is a typewriter, "I'd just love to try stooking for one day. I'd just love to try stooking for one day. I'd just love to try stooking for one day."

While making no definite decision as to the party's action in the forthcoming Edmonton by-election, the Edmonton constituency Social Credit Association, at a meeting Monday night established a committee with power to set a date for a nominating convention.

The committee is composed of the constituency executive, made up of the president, two vice-presidents, secretary and treasurer. John Guile, president of the association, said the meeting was a success and that he had been called for the specific purpose of discussing the by-election.

Elmer E. Roper will contest the election as a C.C.F. candidate and John F. Lyburn, K.C., was nominated as an independent party.

Edmonton Liberals have also announced they plan to contest the election. The constituency association plans for a nominating convention.

Don't let yourself feel "careless"

When you're feeling tired, listless, "below par," you're liable to get careless, make costly mistakes. Such symptoms are often the result of incomplete elimination. So if you have a "high tension" job that gives you no chance for exercise, take these two steps to health: (1) To get well, use your doctor's (2) To keep well, watch your habits. Make sure you keep food wastes moving promptly. But avoid harsh cathartics! Instead, get plenty of needed "bulk" in your diet. Start every morning with a bowlful of crisp, moist-flavoured Kellogg's Bran Flakes. Other Parts of Wheat. Gently laxative, they help supply valuable minerals and protein. Ask your grocer for the golden-yolk package. It comes in two convenient sizes. In restaurants, order the individual package with the Inner, WAXTITE, sealed bag. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

DRIFTING BALLOONS ARE TARGETS

Camp Borden Training Turns Out Deadly Tank Units

Helen Harrison, of Toronto, is now in England taking a rigid training course in flying military planes as a member of the British Air Transport Auxiliary. She is the only Canadian girl in a group of U.S. girl fliers whose duty is to ferry fighter planes and bombers from one point of the country to another. The job is a tough one, but Miss Harrison has had more than 2,500 hours in the air. She has flown planes in Canada, the United States, South Africa and England, where she learned nine years ago.

Edward Francis Gallagher, Jr., looks as though he thought pop was a great guy as he sees him for the first time in his life (six months). Leatherneck Learns

Crop-Duster

Gas attack? Nope, just crop-dusters going about their useful business. But they're scaring the daylights out of jittery New Jersey housewives this summer.

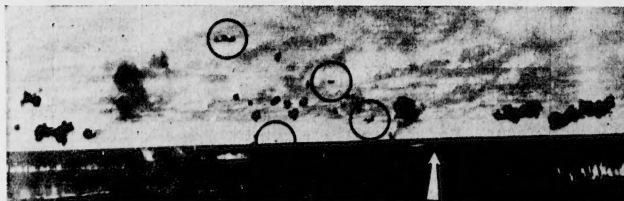

Team work, team training and team spirit that make a tank crew behave with a single mind. That's how the men of Canada's army at Camp Borden are handling the great made-in-Canada Ram tank, one of the most powerful tanks in general use. Here are two views of the tank men at their drill. Loaded up with belts of ack ack bullets is Sgt.-Major J. R. Davies going out to his tank for a training period. For ack ack targets these big balloons (right) filled with hydrogen are used. They are released to windward of the tank and fly an erratic course, making very difficult targets.

This could be a lesson in how to get into a modern tank. The pictures were made at the Canadian army tank training centre at Camp Borden, Ont., and the machine is a Canadian-made Ram. The forward gunner (left) enters through the forward gun turret where he mans the anti-aircraft guns, and serves as spare driver. The regular driver (centre) climbs through the side port and before he closes the trap door behind him he has a last look around (right). Then he adjusts his goggles and the shortwave inter-communication equipment so that he can send and receive orders and reports while in action.

Here's Seaman's View Of An Air Attack

Here's a gripping picture of what U.S. seamen saw when they tangled with the Japs off Midway and battered them into frantic flight. Arrows point to U.S. destroyers and circles show Jap planes seeking to launch torpedoes. The black puffs in the sky are bursting anti-aircraft shells while the streaks of white water mark where the ack-ack shrapnel falls.

BANNERS FLYING

By Mary Raymond

Christie Colton, who has promised Bart Sanderson, the radio star, that she will give him a party, is now preparing to do a personality quiz for the radio.

Previous to the flight she has attended a committee meeting for the China Relief fund, met Sandra Rodin, a nurse, and had a date with her in which Sandra says they are "natural enemies" because they care for the same man.

CHAPTER V

It was while the young man was in the operating room that Christie remembered about Bart, and waiting on a doorstep. It was 1:30 now.

Bart's voice, when she reached him by phone, sounded almost angry, but and immensely relieved. "Where in the world are you, Christie?"

"At the Lakeside Hospital. Some poor fellow had an accident and I had to bring him here. It was a real emergency, Bart."

"Good heavens!" Bart exclaimed. "You drove him over?"

"No. It had to be quicker than that. I brought him here in a plane. There was a long silence at the other end."

"Bart, Christie pleaded, "surely you aren't angry. I didn't forget my promise. It was something I had to do."

"I'm not angry, Christie. I'm frightened. There's a lucky star over you, darling, but promise me you won't fly the plane back."

"I won't, Bart. I'm taking the train, but there isn't one to Westwood for several hours."

Hold Everything

"The war can't last much longer—they'll be running out of jokes about the army!"

Laff-A-Day

"He's the head of my draft board. She went down to see about getting ME a deferment!"

Curious World —By William Ferguson

THE MOON, ALTHOUGH APPEARING TO GAZE DOWN ON THE EARTH AT TIMES, IS ABOUT 100,000 MILES FARTHER AWAY THAN THE HIGHEST CLOUDS THAT EXIST.

ANSWER: Tiger and zebra, stripes; giraffe, leopard, jaguar and cheetah, spots.

"I know," Bart's voice was sober. "And my train pulls out in an hour."

"Oh, Bart, you'll write—you'll be back soon."

"I was just thinking how darling the factory letters are. Darned, it was pretty wonderful what you did. I'm proud as the devil. You won't do it again, though."

"The kind of luck you have—I might just call it, Christie."

"It's the very last time, Bart." When the phone clicked in place, Christie joined the group of people on the sun porch. Every now and then a nurse would come to the door and signal to some anxious relative or friend, who would hurry away.

"That that poor fellow has only one," Christie thought soberly. She would stay here until nearly train time. She must know how the stranger stood the operation. It was around 3 when a nurse motioned to Christie, Christie got up and joined her in the corridor.

"Your friend is going to be all right," the nurse said. "It was a good thing those doctors in Westwood got him here so quickly, and it was lucky you happened to know how to handle a plane. Well, I guess you know how fortunate you are." She was smiling.

"Right as all right, now? Oh, I'm so glad!"

"Right as all right, now? I'm really glad!"

"I suppose you know I never saw him in my life until they brought him to the airport."

"He had a few rational moments," the nurse replied, stiffly. "And once he asked for you."

"There's some mistake," Christie insisted. "He is a stranger to me."

"I'm sorry, Miss Colton," the nurse said, turning to go. "It was not until Christie was on her way to the train that she remembered that she had failed to find out the young man's name. And—this was strange—the nurse had known her name. Maybe Bill Blake had phoned the hospital after she left."

Jan was driving up as Christie's taxi turned in the gateway. She waited until Christie had paid the driver and then asked, "Why the taxi? Did you have car trouble?"

Christie shook her head. She told Jan the story. While she was talking, she had the feeling that Jan was way ahead of her. There was a moment when she expected Jan to look excited, but not amazed.

"The man you took to Lakeside was Stephen Martin," Jan said. "Stephen! Not really."

She was going right ahead, she told the family, with her plans for Jack's ball.

Busy days followed. Talks with caterers, plans for decorations. Two stenographers, pulled away from work at Mr. Colton's office, checked lists and addressed envelopes endlessly. Great stacks went out for mailing.

Christie, it's going to be beautiful! Mrs. Colton said one day. She was standing in the doorway of the bathroom. "Can you imagine this room completely transformed into a white winter scene, with a forest of trees covered with snow and jeweled with blue lights?"

"Add some red, and you'll have a picture scheme," Christie said slowly.

"Mother, I don't like your father. Honestly, I believe you have red, white, and blue stripes running up and down your spine."

The ratio was on in the music room. It was the Christmas season. The voice of an excited announcer reached her. Then, the awful import of the words she had heard sent her flying back to the bathroom.

"Mother, you'll have to call the party off. Pearl Harbor has been bombed."

"Pearl Harbor?" Mrs. Colton's voice was startled. "How terrible, Christie. But I can't see that it has anything to do with Jan's party. The flowers are ordered, the food, too. And all the invitations are out. You must be out of your mind. I couldn't call it off."

"Mother, it isn't patriotic. It isn't right."

Mrs. Colton's voice was frigid. "I don't see that a party has any connection with patriotism. People in this town are going to remember this one as long as they live."

It isn't true
That a clean tooth never decays.

Many school books state that a "clean tooth never decays." It is certainly true that a clean tooth will not decay as rapidly as a foul one, but research workers at Columbia University have found that even the cleanest teeth will decay if there is faulty nutrition. The early Eskimos, who never saw a toothbrush had better teeth than modern man with all his dentifrices, and scientists believe it was due to their diet.

Trial Is Ordered On Indecency Charges

Final hearing of charges of gross indecency against John S. Hoff, Jasper, Alta., was concluded Monday afternoon when Police Magistrate Harold Have, K.C., recommended that the trial be held on two more charges.

This brings to six the number of charges of gross indecency against Hoff that have been given preliminary hearing in police court. He was remanded for supreme court trial on all six counts.

Proceedings in connection with a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile were waived pending the results of the supreme court trials in September.

Seek Workers In Prairie Provinces

The shortage of trained help in wartime departments of the Dominion government at Ottawa has become so acute that personnel officers of the civil service commission and the department of munitions and supply will comb the prairie provinces for prospective employees.

Starting at Edmonton on July 29 and working east, the personnel scouts will visit Calgary, Moose Jaw, Regina, Prince Albert, Winnipeg, and Fort William-Port Arthur. They will spend at least one day in each city to interview applicants.

Pressing need exists in Ottawa for stenographers, typists, clerks, and bookkeepers. Men and women with industrial and business training, engineers of all categories, chemists, metallurgists, expert accountants, and office and personnel managers are in great demand.

Compiling with orders-in-council restricting the fields from which employees may be drawn, the personnel officers will be unable to consider applications from persons already employed in war industry, unless such applicants are not employed in their usual occupation or are able to obtain releases from their employers.

Salaries for clerical and stenographic positions range as high as $175 per month. Salaries up to $4,000 per year.

The personnel officers responsible for the procurement of government staff will be in Edmonton about July 30.

The guilty truck drivers were Art Struback and Andrew J. Shaw.

In imposing the fines, Magistrate Have stated, "It is going to cost you $10 and costs to learn that one section of the traffic bylaws."

The charges were laid by City Humane Officer Jones.

Robert Novell, who pleaded guilty to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile last week, was sentenced to three months in jail when he appeared for sentence during the same court session.

Congregation Approves Plan Of New Church

Northeast corner of 109 street and 43 avenue will be the site of the new Metropolitan church, plans for which were approved by a meeting of the congregation Monday evening.

The Rev. R. McRory, Thompson, minister of the church was chairman of the meeting, which took place in Knox United church.

To be built facing west on 109 street, the church will be constructed of brick with a stucco finish, and will be completely up-to-date.

Cost of the completed building is estimated at $76,000 but only $80,000 of this work is to be done at present. The balcony and much of the interior finishing will be left incomplete.

According to John Rule, of the firm of Rule, Wynn and Rule Co., architects, the church will have modern design, but the dignity and solemnity of a church of this class. In addition to the main auditorium, a ladies' parlor, lounge, private chapel, complete stage in the basement, and a modern kitchen.

It is not definite whether the new building will be built of new brick or whether the bricks in the old church will be used. It is believed that steel in the old building valued at $1000 will be used.

Although for the present the organ, and the balcony in the church's interior will not be completed, the exterior of the church will be completely finished except for the stained glass windows.

Six-Cent Subsidy Only On Butterfat

As there seems to be a misunderstanding about subsidies for dairy butter products, the department of agriculture desires to make clear the fact that under Wartime Prices and Trade Board regulations, the six-cent subsidy applies only to butterfat purchased on a butterfat basis and used in the manufacture of creamery butter.

To complete the forms for a refund of the subsidy it is necessary to show Dominion registered number and also the provincial licence number.

This means that any small dairy manufacturing butter without a creamery licence, cannot collect any subsidy.

There have been numerous inquiries flooding the office of the provincial dairy commissioner regarding the payment of this cent bonus.
